SEPTEMBER 2025

GREETINGS WILD ROSES!

Welcome to the Wild Rose Newsletter! We're excited to have this new way to share updates and celebrate milestones. What an exciting summer it has been with new horses, riders, venues, and teams competing in their first shows! It's been heartwarming to see our experienced horsewomen step up to support and inspire the newer ones.

Local shows at Simon Arena and Golden Gate were a highlight — the prizes were beautiful, the management was exceptional, and even the weather cooperated. If you missed them this year, consider adding these convenient shows to your schedule this fall or next year.

The summer season wraps up with Midstates Fall, and we're branching out to a new venue this October at Brownland near Nashville (Oct. 8–12 and 15–19). Contact Tal or Kirsten if you'd like to join. Excited to finish the 2025 show season with an exciting new venue!

BARN REMINDERS

Stall fans should not be set above Medium (Level 2) to avoid tripping the power.

It's MN, and cooler weather is coming. Make sure your horse's blankets are clean, repaired, and ready — even if you don't need them yet.

No jumping outside of lessons. You're welcome to set poles for practice, just please put them back when you're done.

Spotlight

NYLA KROTZER

After a year and a half at WRS, Nyla's happiest moments are jumping with her horse, Gucci, and spending time with friends at the barn. A highlight of 2025 was bringing Gucci home, making this year especially memorable. Outside the arena, this 5th grader from Nova Classical Academy enjoys pottery and exploring art museums.

PACK LIKE A PRO

from Muffy Lokowich

I keep all my show gear in two clear bins—one for horse stuff and one for human stuff. The horse bin holds things like wraps, pads, meds, scrim, and show halters, while the human bin has my helmet, boots, gloves, hair nets, sunscreen, and extra socks. Packing is easy because I know where everything is, and when I get home, it all goes back in the bins after a wash or polish so it's ready for next time. Best part—my trunk isn't stuffed with things I only need on show days!
